What is Fair Trade?

Fair Trade is a movement dedicated to making sure that producers in developing countries are paid a fair price for the goods we consume. The fair trade movement has its roots in the United States in the mid-1940s. Under fair trade arrangements, less money goes to "middlemen" and more goes to the producer, usually an independent farmer, member of a small cooperative or an artisan. You know that more of your money is helping to improve the incomes of regular people. The main products are coffee, tea, cocoa, clothing and crafts.

Some of the key elements of fair trade are women's work is properly valued and rewarded, a safe and healthy working environment is provided and it helps producer's stay independent.

Ten Chimney's Estate

Home of Theatre Legend Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne

The Ten Chimney's Estate is the home of theatre legends Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne. Their careers spanned from the 1920's thru the 1960's. The 60 acre estate is located in Genesee Depot, Wisconsin, 30 miles from Milwaukee, WI. Alfred Lunt purchased the land in 1914 after coming into an inheritance from his father. Alfred spent time as a child on family picnics in the small Wisconsin town. The name Ten Chimneys comes from the number of chimneys on the Main House, the Cottage and the Studio combined.

The design of the buildings and property shows the theatre greats unique personalities. The rooms of the home are like a stage every detail carefully crafted.

The couple spent summers there while performing and after they retired they lived there full time. Many famous people visited the estate. Some of the guests include Noel Coward, Helen Hayes, Laurence Olivier, Alexander Woollcott, and Katherine Hepburn.

The Estate has tours available. It's a unique experience to travel back in time and it is right in our own back yard.

Cork Flooring A Natural Flooring Trend

The trend toward green and sustainable interiors has given us a variety of low-cost, renewable resources like concrete, bamboo and even cork. Natural cork flooring has a unique look and offers insulating properties.

Cork flooring is favored by those who want to save money, the environment, and themselves from allergens. The trees cork is harvested from are not harmed in the process, leaving them ready to be harvested again in a number of years. Cork is hypoallergenic unlike many carpets and sub surfaces used in homebuilding. Many building products can lead unknowingly to health concerns of the homeowner.

Cork itself is a softer material than solid wood, but the finished product can withstand all kinds of abuse. Cork floors are set on top of a high-density fiberboard base and topped with cured acrylic to reduce scratches and dents.

Cork has a natural beauty rivaled by few other natural materials. It comes in many colors and different manufacturers provide various tile shapes and patterns. Cork floors have been used in public buildings such as churches and libraries since 1898, long before residential applications.

Enjoy the unique beauty and health benefits of cork flooring.
